Jack Whitehall and David Duchovny star in a twisted thriller about a manipulative manny out for revenge

Carice van Houten as Nat

NEW THRILLER

Malice

From Friday 14 November, Prime Video

See Jack Whitehall as you've never seen him before in new psychological thriller Malice.

The comedian and actor is best known for his stand-up shows, his hilarious travelogues with his father, Michael, and for playing a variety of bumbling comedy characters, from posh student JP in C4's Fresh Meat to quirky teacher Alfie Wickers in BBC's Bad Education.

In this six-part drama, however, Whitehall takes on a shockingly sinister role as 'manny' Adam Healey, who appears to be charming and charismatic, but secretly harbours a bitter and vengeful obsession…

'I'd been trying to find parts that were different and were going to challenge me as an actor,' says Whitehall, 37. 'Malice plays on this fear of how little we know about the people that we get to look after our children.'

LAP OF LUXURY

Adam is working as a tutor for couple Jules (Christine Adams) and Damien (Raza Jaffrey) and joins them and their kids on the Greek island of Paros where they are holidaying with the wealthy Tanner family at their luxury villa.

It transpires that Adam has a vendetta against businessman Jamie, played by US actor David Duchovny, who's best known for his role as FBI agent Fox Mulder in The X-Files.

'I was so excited when I heard David was coming on board,' says Whitehall. 'I'd grown up watching a lot of his shows and thought he was such a great choice for that part. He has so much natural charisma.'

When the Tanners' Australian nanny Jodie (Phoenix Jackson Mendoza) falls dangerously ill, Adam inveigles his way into the family's London home when they return to the UK and it's not long before his true vindictive nature emerges as he turns Jamie and his wife Nat (Carice Van Houten) against each other and secretly plots to bring down the entire family. But why does he hold such a bitter grudge against them?

'He's someone that seems to be this very lovely affable guy who is constantly around and ready to help,' says Whitehall. 'But, actually, he has an ulterior motive, and quite a dark and sinister backstory.'

As well as his seemingly attractive and appealing personality, Adam has a lot of other things going for him, including an in-depth knowledge of mythology and skills such as cooking, making cocktails and even Greek dancing.

'One of the challenges of playing Adam, compared to anything that I've done before, was that he is very competent,' smiles Whitehall. 'Most of the characters that I play are the opposite – they're idiots or fools. It's easy to be incapable, but if you're meant to be good at lots of things, you have to learn how to do all of those things. The Greek dancing took weeks of training. It was so much easier playing Alfie Wickers. He couldn't do anything!'

At first, the Tanners are oblivious to the brooding and menacing side of Adam's personality.

'There are a lot of issues and unresolved trauma, so it was a challenge mentally to hold this state of mind in all

SINISTER SCHEME

When Adam's obsession with the family raises questions, those who dig deeper into his past find themselves playing a dangerous game. Meanwhile, as Jamie's world collapses around him, he starts to twig that Adam may be responsible for all their recent disasters, but is he too late to save his family from his malevolent scheming?

Whitehall was delighted to get the role, but filming took place just as he became a new dad to daughter Elsie with his partner, model Roxy Horner.

'It was a very unusual time to be filming a show like that and playing a character like Adam,' he reveals. 'I was quite emotional and sleep deprived. I had to do a lot of research, watch some rather disturbing films and read about rather unsavoury people.

'There was one morning when Roxy came down to find Elsie bouncing up and down on my knee, while we were watching Psycho together. I had to explain it was for research purposes!'

Tom Cullen and Lola Petticrew hide their secret passion in 1970s Belfast

NEW DRAMA

Trespasses

Sunday-Wednesday, 9pm, C4 (box set, Channel 4 Streaming)

Set against a background of violence at the height of The Troubles in Northern Ireland in 1975, C4's four-part drama Trespasses tells the story of Catholic teacher Cushla Lavery (Bloodlands' Lola Petticrew).

Cushla is working nights in her family's Belfast pub when she meets and falls for Michael Agnew (Downton Abbey's Tom Cullen), an older, married Protestant barrister.

The risky romance proves an escape for Cushla, whose hopes and dreams have been frustrated by the daily grind over the years, but her drunk, sharp-tongued mother, Gina (The Crown's Gillian Anderson), knows that she's playing a very dangerous game. And as the romance secretly blossoms amid the bombings and sectarian tensions. Cushla finds herself pulled between duty and desire.

The drama sees Anderson return to Northern Ireland where she filmed three seasons of The Fall, playing detective Stella Gibson, a decade ago.

'I love filming in Northern Ireland, I love the people and feel very comfortable and at home there,' she says. 'Trespasses explores themes of identity, loyalty and the cost of crossing societal boundaries during a time of deep division.'

Here, Petticrew, 29, and Cullen, 40, tell us more…

Gillian Anderson as Gina

Can you describe your characters in four words?

Petticrew Cushla is kind, loving, funny and open.

Cullen I'd describe Michael as passionate, righteous, fun – and lonely.

What attracted you to the project?

Petticrew I'd read the book [by Louise Kennedy], and I felt the story was so interesting and pictured the Troubles in a way we hadn't seen before. The romance element really excited me.

Cullen The characters are complex – so nuanced and filled with moral ambiguity. Michael is a very righteous guy with a strong moral compass when it comes to the way he sees the world and the actions of others, but he struggles to focus his own compass and he hurts a lot of people that he dearly loves.

What can you tell us about Cushla and Michael's relationship?

Petticrew I get a bit emotional talking about these two characters. They are from very different worlds, but have this ineffable connection and deep love and admiration for each other because they see the world in the same way. Cushla has a lot of fear about their relationship, but Michael doesn't have that, and Cushla admires him so much for that.

Cullen Michael changes a lot during the series. When we first meet him, he is this bullish, effervescent guy who is trying to rise above the circumstances he finds himself in. He falls deeply in love with Cushla and tries to tackle the pain that's buried deep in his soul. But, like everyone else in the show, he gets suffocated by the world he is surrounded by and you start to see him struggle with that.

What was it like working with Gillian Anderson?

Petticrew I've followed her career since I was a kid, so filming with her was a real pinch-me moment.

Did you enjoy wearing the 1970s fashions?

Cullen I loved Michael's wardrobe. One outfit I particularly enjoyed was when I was wearing green corduroys and a really nice green woollen top. There was something about the textures and colours that felt so Irish. My family are from Ireland, and at that moment I felt connected to my grandparents. I got quite emotional.

Petticrew My favourite outfit was a gorgeous berry blazer that was tailored just for me, so I got to take it home at the end of production. I was buzzing!

Anita Dobson revives a TV classic as a sharp-tongued pensioner

NEW DRAMA

Play for Today
Thursday, 9pm, 5

More than four decades since it last aired, groundbreaking drama series Play for Today is making a triumphant return.

Known for fearless storytelling and championing new talent, the BBC1 anthology ran from 1970 to 1984, delivering unforgettable dramas such as Mike Leigh’s Abigail’s Party and Rumpole of the Bailey.

Now, 5 is reviving the landmark series with four new stand-alone plays starting with Never Too Late – a darkly comic, irreverent look at ageing starring Anita Dobson.

INDEPENDENT SPIRIT

‘It’s a good story and pertinent today because people are living long lives,’ says Dobson, 76, who plays Cynthia, a sharp-tongued, independent woman facing the prospect of being moved into a retirement home by her daughter, Amanda (Tracy-Ann Oberman).

‘Cynthia wants independence and a life of her own,’ adds Dobson. ‘Her biggest fear – as it would be for me – is losing her home. She doesn’t want to live with what she considers old people, because inside she’s a girl of 28 who wants to party! But once she relaxes into the home, she finds love and friendship in unexpected places.’

The series of one-off dramas will also feature Special Measures, starring Jessica Plummer as an overwhelmed teacher soon to be visited by Ofsted inspectors; Big Winners, featuring Sue Johnston and Paul Copley as a couple who hit the jackpot, only to discover that money changes everything; and Intruders, a psychological thriller starring Alan Davies and Nikki Amuka-Bird as a couple confronted by a stranger’s explosive accusations.

Dobson – who shocked Doctor Who fans this year when her character Mrs Flood was revealed to be the villainess Time Lady, the Rani – was a big fan of Play for Today when it first aired.

‘I remember it well – good stories, told and produced brilliantly,’ she recalls. ‘I wanted to be involved because it’s great to give young people a chance. It’s tough to get into this business, but the crew working on the show rose to it beautifully. It’s lovely to see Play for Today come back – and long may it last.’

NEW ENTERTAINMENT

A League of Their Own

Wed, 9pm, Sky Max & Sky Showcase

After more than 15 years on our screens, BAFTA-winning sports panel show A League of Their Own returns this week for its last-ever season in TV's top flight.

We caught up with host Romesh Ranganathan and regulars Jamie Redknapp, Jill Scott and Micah Richards to get the low-down...

Original host James Corden

ROMESH RANGANATHAN

How does it feel that the show is ending? It's sad, but we've had an amazing run. I watched the show from the early days, desperate to be on it, and my first booking as a guest was with Arsenal players Ashley Cole and Robin van Persie, which was my dream. To then become host has been incredible.

Do you worry what the producers might have planned for the finale? Yes, I'm terrified. I'm the least alpha on the show, and they never let me forget it. Whenever there's an opportunity for a game to throw stuff at me, they always take it.

Do you ever have a kickabout with Micah, Jill and Jamie? I avoid it at all costs. Any time a football comes out on set, I find something very important to do at my desk.

Which guests are you most excited about this year? Wayne Rooney will be great, and Chloe Kelly is amazing. My kids absolutely love her.

JILL SCOTT

How do you feel going into the final series? I just feel lucky to be part of the final series. It's going to be a celebration. I can't turn my competitiveness off, though – Rom says it's not about winning, but I'm always checking the scores.

Are the challenges more extreme this time? Yes, I love the games; it's where I come alive, and they're bigger this year. The producers have put together an obstacle course with their favourite bits from previous series, with lots of tanks of water.

Is there any time for a kickabout when you're filming? We can't help ourselves – whenever there's a ball around, Micah and Jamie and I can't resist.

Do you enjoy having other Lionesses on the show? Absolutely. Teammates like Mary Earps have been brilliant. People sometimes wonder if women can handle the banter, but the women's football changing rooms are probably worse than the men's.

JAMIE REDKNAPP

You've been on ALOTO since it began – how did you feel when you joined? I was terrified, really shy and worried about what people thought. But eventually I relaxed and had a laugh. I've loved every second of it.

You experience the full force of Jofra Archer's bowling at The Oval this series. How was that? Terrifying! I went in after Patrice Evra, and when I saw the speed, I stood as far away from my wicket as possible. Jofra was just jogging towards us, and it was still frightening.

Are you worried you'll be stitched up in the final games? I've been stitched up every series, but I love it. I used to be a scaredy-cat with heights, but I have got better after 20 series.

What are the memories you'll take away? The friendships. Jack Whitehall and Freddie Flintoff are two of my best mates now. From the early days to now, there hasn't been a single bad egg.

MICAH RICHARDS

How does it feel to be back for Series 20? It's bittersweet knowing that this is the final series. Looking back on my football career, I don't think I embraced it enough, so this time I'm going to soak it all in.

How was it filming at Silverstone with Max Verstappen for this series? I've always been Team Lewis Hamilton, but Max is an absolute legend. Going round the track with him at Silverstone was terrifying at first, but after about 10 seconds of screaming, it was amazing.

Which guests are you excited about? Harry Maguire will be brilliant. I'm also looking forward to meeting MMA fighter Paddy 'The Baddy' Pimblett. He will bring chaos.

What has the show meant to you? It came along at the perfect time and changed my life. The way my football career ended left me feeling very low and I was searching for something. I first came on as a guest and felt part of the team straight away.

LIONS

An imposing lion pride, including female Rita, are the dominant species in Nsefu, but they experience tragedies as well as triumphs.

'Lions are Africa's most powerful predators. They rule everything and cause challenges for other animals, but they go through tough times,' says series editor Simon Blakeney. 'As soon as the lions have cubs, they've got vulnerability because a huge proportion of cubs die within their first year. Lions can go through litter after litter, and lose all of them.'

HYENAS

Hyenas are renowned scavengers, which brings tensions for pregnant Tandala as she battles to keep her offspring safe.

'Hyenas are tough, but events can turn on a knife edge,' reveals executive producer Mike Gunton. 'When Tandala finds a meal, she comes into conflict with wild dogs – but then a lion comes in and steals the kill! There's a hilarious moment when Tandala finds dead prey and drops it in some water to hide it from her clanmates.'

LEOPARDS

Devoted mother Olimba is raising her cubs Moyo and Mutima alone, but jeopardy looms, and as Mutima grows older, Olimba comes to see her as a threat.

'The young leopards have different personalities,' says Blakeney. 'We see Mutima build her confidence and become a powerful, independent leopard with territory of her own, while the young male Moyo is bold enough to face down a hyena. But then he gets too bold with the lions...'

In Zambia's South Luangwa National Park is a lush and fertile region called Nsefu, home to a variety of species and now the location for BBC1's ambitious natural-history series Kingdom.

Filmed over five years, the six-parter follows the intense feuds and fights for survival involving four very different but intertwined animal groups – a leopard family, a wild-dog pack, a hyena clan and a pride of lions.

'It is a land full of challenges, and these rivals compete to stake their claim on it,' says Sir David Attenborough, 99, who narrates the documentary. 'Pressure grows for anyone with a family to protect. But who will succeed in ruling this precious kingdom?'

Here, the series' producers reveal more about the heart-stopping journeys of each intrepid creature…

Alpha female Storm causes upheaval when she and her pack need a new home – and they also face difficulties of their own.

'Wild dogs are astonishing. They have strong bonds and are social and greet each other each morning,' explains producer Anna Place. 'Storm's pack stays with her through highs and lows and when a den collapses, she has to dig in the sand to save her pups, which is heartbreaking. You're on the edge of your seat.'

More secrets and scandals await on the Italian Riviera when Hotel Portofino returns for a third season this week.

When we last saw the hotel's British expat owner, Bella Ainsworth (Natascha McElhone), she told her caddish, aristocratic husband, Cecil (Mark Umbers), that their marriage was over.

MOVING ON

As the new six-parter begins two years later in 1929, the couple are now estranged. And as Bella revels in her new-found independence, she enjoys a secret romance with handsome architect Marco (Giorgio Marchesi) and shocks the locals by being the first woman in Portofino to wear trousers.

'She sees other ways of living that she never even conceived of,' says McElhone. 'She's living for the moment.'

When we rejoin Bella, she's awaiting the arrival of her industrialist father George (David Schofield) and frosty sister Amelia (Camilla Rutherford).

'It's an interesting element to bring in, because we've hardly referred to Bella's family before,' says McElhone. 'It was nice to dig into that and see the dynamics between them.'

Just before they turn up, however, Bella is stunned when Cecil resurfaces to ask for a divorce…

'Bella and Cecil have separated, but the D-word hasn't come up,' says Umbers. 'Cecil has fallen for Nellie [Shannon Tarbet], the daughter of his very rich stockbroker, so he returns to Portofino to ask Bella for a divorce.'

However, the couple soon find it's not going to be easy.

COMPLICATIONS

'Divorce was such a different landscape than it is now,' adds McElhone. 'It was amazing how complicated it was and how much

NEW CRIME DRAMA

Allegiance

Thursday, 9pm, U&Alibi

A young cop is torn between loyalty to her family and her badge in Allegiance, a 10-part Canadian police procedural that explores clashing communities, cultures and a flawed justice system.

Sabrina Sohal (Supinder Wraich) is the star of her academy, not to mention the third generation – and first woman – in her Sikh Punjabi-Canadian family to join the police force. She's aiming to work in the Serious Crimes social stigma would be attached to that. The ramifications were huge, and it was potentially ruinous. But Cecil's only thinking of himself.'

To complicate matters, Cecil has inherited his father's title and has a massive tax bill to pay, while scheming fascist politician Vincenzo Danio (Pasquale Esposito), who continues to cast a sinister shadow over the town, gets hold of some incriminating photos.

'I really enjoyed Season 3. It felt different,' says McElhone. 'But I can't tell you how hot it was filming in Croatia. There were little pools of water everywhere because everyone was sweating – you would slip and slide as you walked across the floor.'

Unit, but on the day of her graduation, her politician father Ajeet (Stephen Lobo) is wrongfully arrested for treason.

DIVIDED LOYALTIES

Rocked by the allegations, Sabrina starts her new job in her home town of Surrey, British Columbia, under a dark cloud. But when a child goes missing on her first day, her quick-thinking and handling of the case propels her into the spotlight.

Behind the scenes, she battles to clear her father's name with help from her brother, ex-cybersecurity expert Ishaan (Adolyn H Dar), and uncovers dangerous links between Ajeet's arrest and white-supremacy groups.

'We haven't seen a character like Sabrina in a police procedural before and it's cool to see a South Asian woman in the role,' says India-born, Toronto-raised Wraich, 39. 'Sabrina is like any other Surrey girl: independent and street smart.

'She has seen the world from both sides and carries that perspective into the job. But when this terrible thing happens to her father, her allegiance is questioned and it knocks her off her feet.'

MAKING A DIFFERENCE

The drama broke viewing records when it first aired in Canada last year and has already been renewed for a third season.

'Stories about immigrants are often about newcomers, but there are so many immigrants who have been in Canada for multiple generations and helped build the country,' says creator Anar Ali. 'That's the story I wanted to tell, with its complicated interplay between identity and allegiances.'

DANGER next door

Claire Danes is a grieving writer fixated on her new neighbour Matthew Rhys

NETFLIX

The Beast in Me

NEW Available: Thursday 13 November
Genre: Thriller Season: 1 Episodes: 8

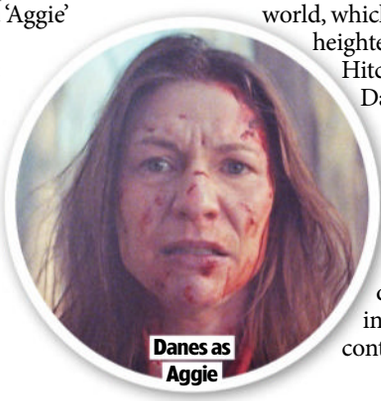
Claire Danes reunites with the team behind Homeland for a tense cat-and-mouse thriller that takes the concept of a 'nosy neighbour' to dangerous extremes.

With a title inspired by a Johnny Cash song, the gripping eight-parter follows acclaimed author Agatha 'Aggie' Wiggs (Danes), who has retreated from the public eye and battled writer's block since the death of her young son.

But when flashy, enigmatic real-estate mogul Nile Jarvis (Matthew Rhys) – who was once a suspect in his wife's disappearance – moves into her affluent Upstate New York neighbourhood, Aggie is inspired to make him the subject of her next novel.

As the pair begin to forge an uneasy friendship, however, Aggie's research into his life and case leads to a deadly web of secrets that threatens to unravel beastly truths about Nile and herself.

'I love this character and this world, which feels familiar but heightened, and faintly Hitchcockian,' says Danes, 46.



Danes as Aggie

HIDDEN DEPTHS

'I liked this idea of somebody having a shadow self – what if your most heinous, darkest urges come into existence? Aggie is controlled, hyperanalytical and cerebral, but she has visceral, animalistic urges. Playing with that was fun, but the health of the show had everything to do with my chemistry with Matthew. Working with him was dreamy.'

The cast includes Jonathan Banks as Nile's controlling father Martin, and Brittany Snow as Nile's second wife, Nina. Natalie Morales also stars as Aggie's ex-wife Shelley, and David Lyons is FBI agent Brian Abbott.

Danes was initially approached about her part in 2020 by executive producer

CLAIRE DANES

Jodie Foster with The X-Files writer Gabe Rotter's script, but while she was always the choice for the lead role, the casting of her powerful, creepy nemesis was a critical decision.

CREEPY CHARISMA

'I'm not usually considered for roles like this and I'm desperate to do them because they're so enjoyable,' says The Americans star Rhys, who turns 51 on 8 November. 'This was so alluring, but also challenging because it's easy to walk these parts into possible cliché, and I wanted Nile to have warmth and humanity to him.

'I remember it was only my second day, though, when we had a scene that was 10 pages long and it was like an intricate chess game between Nile and Aggie. It was really terrifying at first because it's like serving a tennis ball against Serena Williams. When you see the kind of flips Claire Danes can do within one look, let alone one scene, it's incredible to watch.'

Caroline Flack's mother fights for answers surrounding her daughter's death

Righting the wrongs

Disney+ Caroline Flack: Search for the Truth

NEW Available: Monday 10 November
Genre: Documentary Season: 1 Eps: 2

Love Island host Caroline Flack was one of Britain's biggest TV stars when she took her own life on 15 February 2020, just weeks after she was charged with assaulting her boyfriend, Lewis Burton, following an argument at her London home.

Her grieving mum, Christine, believes her daughter's death, at the age of 40, started with the decision to prosecute Caroline rather than issue a caution. Now, in a moving two-part Disney+ documentary, Caroline Flack: Search for the Truth, she's fighting for answers.

'After Caroline's death, I knew an injustice had been done,' says Christine. 'This doesn't bring Caroline back but by doing this documentary I want people to know the truth of what happened with Caroline that night.'

When lurid headlines accused Caroline of hitting her boyfriend with a lamp, causing a 'bloodbath', she was labelled a domestic abuser. But, in fact, she was arrested for common assault, the lowest level of assault, no lamp was involved, and her boyfriend didn't even want to press charges.

But when the Crown Prosecution Service decided to press ahead, Caroline received so much online abuse and vilification in the press that she ended up feeling there was no way out.

'There's no redress,' says Christine. 'It seems the tabloids can print what they like, as long as they say it came from a source, and that can't be right. At the time, Caroline couldn't get her voice out there. But I hope she'd be pleased that I'm trying to give her that voice now.'

Caroline's mum Christine

SPEAKING OUT

The documentary features the desperate texts that Caroline sent friends and family in the hours before her death. We also learn how Caroline had secretly suffered with mental-health issues since childhood.

'That was the hardest part because it wasn't public knowledge. I hope it's not disloyal,' says Christine. 'But a lot of people are like Caroline and we need to remember that we don't always know who's vulnerable.

'As a family, we still talk about Caroline all the time, like she's still with us. I want people to know that what was written about her in the papers wasn't the real her.'

MURPHY unmasked

Eddie Murphy

Eddie Murphy comes under the spotlight in a revealing documentary

NETFLIX Being Eddie

NEW Available: Wednesday 12 November
Genre: Documentary

From breakthrough teen comedian to Hollywood A-lister, Eddie Murphy shares the story of his 50-year career in star-studded Netflix documentary Being Eddie, which features friends and fellow comedians Jerry Seinfeld, Jamie Foxx and Chris Rock.

'There's no one else like Eddie. Nobody,' says Angus Wall, who directs the film. 'He's been famous longer than just about anyone alive and he's never lost who he is. He has survived it all with grace.'

The one-off film looks back to how Murphy's career kicked off when he joined the cast of Saturday Night Live straight from high school. It also chronicles his 1980s box-office hits Beverly Hills Cop, Coming to America and Trading Places, plus his 1990s movie The Nutty Professor, which saw him play multiple parts while wearing layers of prosthetics.

There's even a look back at the beloved Shrek franchise from the 2000s,which saw him take on the voice of Donkey. But the most fascinating moments come from the off-guard glimpses of Murphy at his lavish home in Beverly Hills.

'Eddie has played a lot of different characters over the last 40-plus years, but he has never played himself on screen before,' says Wall. 'He opens up his world and his heart and I think viewers are going to really enjoy spending time with him.'

Shaken, not stirred

The wealthy Palm Royale socialites return with more secrets and lies...

tv Palm Royale

NEW Available: Wednesday 12 November

Genre: Comedy drama Season: 2 Episodes: 10 (released weekly)

Put on your fanciest frock, pour yourself a delicious cocktail and venture into the decadent – and often murky – world of 1960s Palm Beach society once more as Palm Royale returns for a second season on Apple TV.

Kristen Wiig returns as Maxine, the former beauty queen trying to claw her way back to the top of Palm Beach's most exclusive club following last season's very public breakdown at the now infamous Beach Ball, where she learnt her husband, Douglas (Josh Lucas), had impregnated manicurist Mitzi (Kaia Gerber), and where her friend and confidant, bartender Robert (Ricky Martin), was accidentally shot.

'People are wondering where we might go from that season finale,' says Bridesmaids' Wiig. 'In the opener, Maxine's happy, wearing a gold outfit and walking around Palm Royale like nothing's wrong… but it turns out to be this big, extravagant, insane fever dream. It was one of the most fun things I've done. I got to dance and be a little physically unhinged and all over the place.'

In reality, Maxine is now a patient at Sunny Tides psychiatric hospital but more determined than ever to inherit the fortune of Douglas' scheming aunt, Norma (Carol Burnett), whose shocking real identity was slowly revealed over the first season.

'I have a lot of dialogue now, whereas in the first few episodes of Season 1, I was in a coma,' says Burnett. 'I'd get up at five in the morning, get dressed, come to the make-up trailer, put on pyjamas, and go back to bed. I don't do that this season. Norma is out of the coma, and she's very vocal.'

TAKING CONTROL

Elsewhere, having endured her husband's death – and going from rags to riches to rags again – Palm Royale doyenne Evelyn Rollins (Allison Janney) finds love with tennis pro Eddie (The Rookie's Jason Canela). But can Evelyn and Maxine become allies to achieve their goals?

'For the whole of Season 2, Maxine and Evelyn are reluctant partners in crime; Evelyn doesn't want to like Maxine, but sees a lot of herself in her,' reveals Janney. 'They're both ambitious women who want more – they want to own the Palm Royale and rule the town after relying on their men's fortunes. That's a big theme throughout the second season – sisters before misters.'

Voyage of discovery

Professor Hannah Fry explores six countries like you've never seen them before...

NEW TRAVELOGUE

The Infinite Explorer with Hannah Fry

Monday, 8pm, National Geographic

Professor Hannah Fry's fascinating new six-part series The Infinite Explorer is no ordinary travelogue – you certainly won't see her sipping cocktails or enjoying spa experiences. Instead, the National Geographic series follows the popular broadcaster as she explores six countries and unpicks how geography and other forces have shaped them as nations.

'Most travelogues are experiential, but I think the production team wanted to know what it would be like to go on holiday with me nerding out and overanalysing everything!' laughs Fry. 'But I've always been interested in the idea that the physical layout of a country ends up changing who its people are.

GEOGRAPHICAL GEMS

'Spain is a perfect example. It's so mountainous that there are really distinct pockets of local identity. The Spanish language might be one of the most-spoken languages on the planet, yet inside Spain itself there are actually five other regional languages, which is such an interesting story about geography.'

As well as Spain, Fry ventures to Greece, Ireland, Iceland and Vietnam, and starts this week with South Korea, where she learns how economics and geography have transformed it from a nation once defined by war to a global powerhouse of modern technology.

'What's very unique to South Korea is that in the 1990s the government took a massive gamble with broadband,' says Fry.

'So you had these internet cafes called "PC bangs" pop up with the fastest internet in the world. That's what's made the country punch so far above its weight.'

However, Fry says she was most struck by Iceland and the attitude of its people, who regularly have to endure volcanoes, earthquakes and snowstorms.

'This is a country where the ground beneath your feet isn't in any way dependable,' she says. 'But the Icelanders have this motto, "Petta reddast," which basically means it will all work out. As people, they feel so small compared to these great geographical forces, so they've learnt to think, "Don't worry, it will all be fine!"'

Richard Burton

Golden voice

A tribute to hard-living Welsh actor Richard Burton

Burton with Elizabeth Taylor

NEW PROFILE

Richard Burton: Wild Genius

Wed, 9pm, BBC2 (Wales, BBC1)

With his mellifluous baritone voice, on-screen charisma and notorious relationship with Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton was famous for films like The Robe and Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?

Now, the extraordinary story of how a miner's son from Wales became one of the most celebrated actors of his generation is told in a new BBC documentary, Richard Burton: Wild Genius, to mark what would have been the star's 100th birthday.

'As a Welsh person, the first voice you hear isn't your mother's, it's Richard Burton's. He's the perfect example of a Welsh success story,' says Michael Sheen, who appears in the documentary with fellow actors Gabriel Byrne, Iwan Rheon, Dame Sian Phillips and Claire Bloom.

Burton was born Richard Jenkins in a small Welsh-speaking mining village and raised in poverty by his sister and her husband after his mother died when he was just two.

His acting career took off after he was mentored by his English teacher Mr Burton (whose surname Burton took as his stage name), and he became an overnight Hollywood star in 1952 with his film My Cousin Rachel.

EXUBERANT

But with fame came a lifestyle of affairs and excess. Despite being married to the actor Sybil Williams, he met Elizabeth Taylor on the 1963 film Cleopatra, sparking a tempestuous, alcohol-fueled romance that lasted over a decade (including two marriages). By the time he filmed Where Eagles Dare in 1968, he was drinking four bottles of vodka a day.

'He left my mother and his two daughters [for Taylor] and he felt this incredible guilt,' says Burton and Williams' daughter Kate Burton. 'He'd not drink for two months and then something would happen and he'd start again.'

Burton was just 58 when he died in August 1984 from a cerebral haemorrhage, shortly after the release of his final film, 1984.

'We know about his rambunctious life, but I got the best of Dad,' says Kate Burton. 'He wasn't perfect, but there was also nobody like him.'

● Biopic movie Mr Burton, starring Harry Lawtey and Toby Jones, is on Monday, 8pm, BBC1.

MOVIE OF THE WEEK

Frankenstein

Oscar Isaac and Jacob Elordi electrify as master and monster in this dazzling version

PERIOD HORROR

Available now, Netflix ★★★★

Oscar-winning director Guillermo del Toro finally brings his lifelong 'passion project' to the screen in a sumptuous retelling of Mary Shelley's classic tale of a monster and its creator. Staying largely faithful to the 1818 Gothic novel, del Toro sets his adaptation during the Crimean War and splits the narrative, with Oscar Isaac's obsessive, egotistical Victor Frankenstein helming chapter one.

As Victor regales his life story to a Danish navy captain (Lars Mikkelson) – whose crew rescues him from a raging giant with super-strength in the icy Arctic – he reveals how he assembled a monstrous man from scavenged body parts in electrifying flashbacks that don't hold back on the gore. The second chapter is told from the perspective of Jacob Elordi's towering, initially toddler-like Creature. But while he recalls his awakening and ultimately his maker's rejection, a heartbreaking truth emerges to explain the Creature's violent reaction to humankind.

The cast includes Christoph Waltz as arms merchant Heinrich Harlander, who finances Victor's experiment, while Heinrich's niece, the beguiling Elizabeth (Mia Goth), is engaged to Victor's brother, William (Felix Kammerer). Look out for Charles Dance as Victor's cruel father, Leopold.

Shelley's story has spawned umpteen adaptations since Boris Karloff's 1931 flat-headed monster, but with Elordi's tragic nuance and Isaac's rock-star swagger stitched together under del Toro's direction, the result is a fresh, pulsating film – with genuine heart. Streaming from 7 November. 2025, 15, 149MIN

Freakier Friday

From Wednesday, Disney+ ★★★

Jamie Lee Curtis and Lindsay Lohan step back into their mother-and-daughter roles in this sweetly silly sequel to their hit 2003 body-swap comedy Freaky Friday, but this time Curtis' Tess and Lohan's Anna are not stepping into each other's shoes. No, the new film doubles up the generational confusion by introducing another pair into the freaky body swapping – single mum Anna's teenage surfer-girl daughter Harper (Julia Butters) and her stepdaughter-to-be, Lily (Sophia Hammons), snooty fashionista daughter of her widowed British chef fiancé (Manny Jacinto). The plotting is so frantic it's sometimes hard to remember who is inhabiting whose body, but it is still fun watching Curtis and Lohan get goofy. 2025, PG, 111MIN

SCI-FI COMEDY

Mickey 17

Friday, 12.35pm & 8pm, Sky Premiere ★★★★

Robert Pattinson is terrific playing multiple clones of a luckless loser sent into outer space in this bizarre sci-fi satire, the third English-language film by Bong Joon Ho, the Oscar-winning South Korean director of Parasite. Pattinson's ill-fated Mickey Barnes signs up for a recklessly stupid space mission led by a narcissistic, Trump-like buffoon (Mark Ruffalo), little realising that his job is that of an expendable worker put into fatally perilous jobs and then cloned when he inevitably dies. But Mickey 17 unexpectedly survives, only to discover that Mickey 18 has already been created. Bong's swingeing anti-capitalist satire is messy, scattershot and overlong, and some of the supporting cast go too far over the top, but Pattinson is wonderfully funny and surprisingly touching. 2024, 15, 137MIN

But things come to a head when Merit is forced to go care for her angry, ageing grandfather (Ed Harris). Director Kyle Hausmann-Stokes was also in the military and this tale is based on the real struggles of many veterans when they leave the service. Also starring Morgan Freeman, this sincere and heartfelt movie may finish a bit too neatly, but works thanks to its grounded script and committed acting. 2024, 15, 102MIN

PSYCHOLOGICAL THRILLER

The Hand That Rocks the Cradle

Available now, Disney+ ★★★

A reboot and shake-up of the 1992 nanny-from-hell thriller, this stars Maika Monroe as the child carer with a vendetta, and Mary Elizabeth Winstead as her employer/prey. Sadly, the wild camp melodrama of the original is missing and Monroe struggles to fill the sizeable shoes left by Rebecca DeMornay. But there are some interesting modern flourishes, especially as both women now suffer from trauma and there's a sexual chemistry between them, while the actual violence is far more visceral. There are also some new delightful twists to keep you on your toes. 2025, 15, 105MIN

Spinal Tap II: The End Continues

Available now, to buy or rent from digital stores ★★★

A work of comic genius, 1984's spoof rockumentary, This Is Spinal Tap, about a fictional heavy metal band's disastrous comeback tour, set the gold-disc standard for the spoof rockumentary genre. It couldn't be a harder act to follow, but 41 years later original director Rob Reiner with his co-writers and stars Christopher Guest, Michael McKean and Harry Shearer have given it a shot with this sequel.

Decrepit band members Nigel Tufnel (Guest), David St Hubbins (McKean) and Derek Smalls (Shearer) haven't played together for 15 years, but a contractual obligation to the daughter of their late manager sees them getting back together for a final gig.

The band's fraught journey to the concert throws up some good gags (the notorious mortality rate of the band's previous drummers is milked for all it's worth) and features starry, surprisingly substantial cameos from the likes of Paul McCartney and Elton John along the way. But the film just isn't as funny as its predecessor. Like so many ageing bands going out on reunion tours, this is a film trading on past glories and on the nostalgic affection of its long-standing fans. 2025, 15, 83MIN

LIVE MOTORSPORT

Sunday, race starts 5pm, Sky Sports F1

The Interlagos Circuit in São Paulo has staged some epic Grands Prix over the years – from Ayrton Senna's victory in 1991 to Sir Lewis Hamilton's 2008 performance where he clinched his first world title on the final corner.

This weekend the Brazilian track could witness another classic as the 2025 world championship reaches a dramatic home stretch with a three-way fight for the title and four races remaining (plus two sprints).

Just one point separates McLaren drivers Lando Norris and Oscar Piastri, with Red Bull's defending champion Max Verstappen hot on their heels. But who will gain the upper hand on Sunday?

Brazilian Grand Prix

Lando Norris is in the driving seat as F1 arrives at São Paulo

LANDO NORRIS
McLAREN, 357pts

The British driver's win in Mexico City saw him leapfrog teammate Oscar Piastri at the top of the standings for the first time since he lost the championship lead following the Saudi Arabian Grand Prix in April. In each of the last five rounds, Norris has outscored Piastri and has hit form at the right time. 'The last few races have been decent, but there is still a long way to go,' says Norris, who turns 26 on 13 November. 'I've been keeping focused, and that's all you can do.'

Lando Norris

OSCAR PIASTRI
McLAREN, 356pts

Fans of the Australian have claimed that McLaren are focusing most of their efforts on Norris, though Piastri has dismissed any suggestions of favouritism. The driver has seen his 34-point advantage over Norris following the Dutch Grand Prix in August turn into a one-point deficit after a poor run of form that included crashing out on the first lap in Baku. Has the 24-year-old lost momentum, or can he turn things around? 'It's about adding some tools to the toolbox, rather than reinventing myself,' he says.

Oscar Piastri

MAX VERSTAPPEN
RED BULL, 321pts

The four-time world champion is back in the title race thanks to upgrades to his Red Bull car. The Dutch driver is now just 36 points off the lead and has far more experience at the sharp end of the season than his younger rivals. The 28-year-old won last year's Brazilian Grand Prix with a masterclass in driving, but he will be hoping for rain in São Paulo as the circuit's high-speed corners should favour McLaren's aero efficiency. 'I just have to win everything. If I don't, it's not going to happen,' he says.

Thu & Fri, ITV1, BBC3 & BBC2 (N Ireland only)

Having secured a place in next year's finals, Thomas Tuchel might want to experiment with his team selection when England host Serbia in their last home Group K match at Wembley on Thursday (kick-off 7.45pm, ITV1). Keeper Jordan Pickford now has a record nine clean sheets in a row for the Three Lions, while captain Harry Kane has 76 goals in 110 appearances. On Friday, Northern Ireland could still finish in the top two in Group A as they travel to Slovakia (kick-off 7.45pm, BBC3 & BBC2 in N Ireland), before concluding their qualifying games against Luxembourg on Monday 17 November. Michael O'Neill's men defeated Slovakia 2-0 last month, with Sunderland's Trai Hume on the scoresheet, but may have left themselves too much to do.

The player of the match, Brisbane Broncos' Reece Walsh, scored two tries on his international debut as the Kangaroos continued their lengthy winning streak against the home nation.

FIRST LOOK

Ruth Jones and James Nesbitt

Run Away

James Nesbitt plays a troubled father in a tense thriller

A desperate dad experiences turmoil as he hunts for his child in Netflix's latest Harlan Coben adaptation Run Away.

The eight-part drama, based on the bestselling crime author's 2019 novel, airs from 1 January 2026 and stars James Nesbitt as Simon Greene, who appears to have an idyllic family life. But his world is turned upside down when his eldest daughter Paige (Ellie de Lange) vanishes.

Simon eventually tracks down Paige in a park, where she has clearly taken drugs, but following a violent altercation, he is left trying to find her again as he delves into a sinister underworld and shocking revelations come to light.

SUPPORTING PLAYERS

Minnie Driver plays Simon's wife Ingrid, while Ruth Jones is private investigator Elena Ravenscroft, who helps him, and Alfred Enoch, Lucian Msamati, Jon Pointing, Tracy-Ann Oberman, Annette Badland, Joe McGann and Ingrid Oliver also feature.

'Run Away is about family, about what we will do to keep our family intact, what secrets we keep within our family, and what secrets we keep as a family,' says executive producer Coben. 'Every time you walk past the house, there's a whole universe that goes on behind that door and none of us have a clue what it is. And Jimmy has so much range. He's an empathetic actor in the sense that he feels, and then you feel for him.'

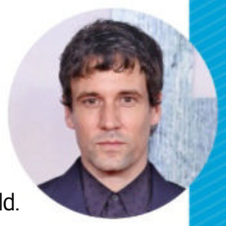
WHAT'S NEXT FOR...

Laura Linney

In BBC1's one-off drama But When We Dance, the actor teams up with Rhys Ifans to play pianist Emma and deputy head Tony, who both receive a diagnosis of Parkinson's and form a bond. Rory Kinnear also appears.

Nick Blood

The actor stars with Saffron Hocking, Brendan Coyle and Peter Serafinowicz in U&Dave's crime drama Hit Point, in which detectives Leo and Bella investigate a case involving the west London underworld.



Coming Back

The upcoming Christmas special of BBC1 comedy Amandaland will see Jennifer Saunders join the cast as posh and exuberant Joan, the aunt of Amanda (Lucy Punch, right), and sister of snooty Felicity (Dame Joanna Lumley).

Shaun Evans will play ex-con Ozzie in the second run of BBC1 drama This City Is Ours, which is filming now and follows Liverpool gangster Michael (James Nelson-Joyce) and partner Diana (Hannah Onslow) as they tackle new hurdles.

Colour-changing visions of Mystical Spirit Guides

Native American cultures have long honoured spiritual connections with the natural world. For many, the Northern Lights hold deep significance, revered as a bridge between the earthly and spiritual realms. Now 'Soul Dancer' captures these traditions in a hand-painted sculptural portrayal of a Native American-inspired maiden and her spirit guide, illuminated by colours of the Aurora Borealis.

Gracefully adorned in Native American-design attire, she summons a powerful vision of the wolf, her spirit animal, through tribal dance. Waves of colour-changing violet, blue, and green light pulse through the glittering crystalline wolf sculpture in a dynamic 'light show'; reminiscent of the Northern Lights.
